MARKET SNAPSHOT

Fixed Income

- The yield curve inverted for the first time since the financial crisis driven by rising short-term rates controlled by the Fed and falling long-term rates influenced by bearish investors.
- Fixed income posted mixed results in the fourth quarter as equity volatility rose.
- Non-investment grade bonds lagged as concerns around credit quality and the drop in oil prices impacted most high yield issuers.

Equities

- Equity markets globally were under pressure as trade negotiations continued to stay in focus and fresh concerns that economic growth may slow amidst tighter monetary and fiscal policy.
- To the surprise of many investors, emerging markets held up better in the risk-off environment during the fourth quarter. A weaker U.S. dollar in December, lower valuations, and company specific news contributed to outperformance.

Real Assets

- Commodity indexes were influenced heavily by the drop in oil prices. The market was surprised by the additional supply resulting from the lifting of sanctions on Iran.
- MLPs retreated in the fourth quarter amidst souring energy-related investor sentiment and a number of corporate actions taking place in the space.
- Real estate fared the best among real assets, but was not immune to the risk-off move in markets over the fourth quarter.

- Third quarter real GDP came in at an annual rate of 3.4% according to the Bureau of Economic Analysis, a decrease from the rate of 4.2% during the second quarter. Aside from last quarter, this was the strongest quarter over quarter growth since the third quarter of 2014.
- The Federal Open Market Committee (“Fed”) voted to increase its benchmark rate by 25 bps to a range of 2.25 – 2.50% during its December meeting. This was the fourth interest rate hike in 2018; the Fed reduced its forecast for 2019 rate increases to two from three.
- Core CPI rose 2.2% (YoY, seasonally-adjusted) in November while Core PCE, the Fed’s preferred measure of inflation, increased 1.9% (YoY, seasonally-adjusted), falling short of the Fed’s 2% target.

GLOBAL ECONOMIC UPDATE

Global Real GDP & Inflation Rates (YoY) As of: Sep-18

Source: Bloomberg

Key: Flagged bars: YoY Real GDP growth
Blue bars: YoY CPI change

- China's official Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) declined in December to 49.4. This level is indicative of contraction and is the lowest level since February 2016. The unofficial Caixin/Markit PMI, a private survey focused more on small and medium sized businesses, also declined to 49.7 in December from 50.2 in November. The World Bank reduced its forecast for 2019 global GDP growth to 2.9% and cited increased trade tensions as a factor that could further negatively impact the economic outlook.
- Germany, the largest Eurozone economy, is at risk of falling into recession as real GDP declined 0.2% in the third quarter. German industrial production declined 1.9% month-over-month in November, its third consecutive monthly decline, increasing the chances of another quarterly decline in real GDP in the fourth quarter.
- Further compounding fears of an economic slowdown in the Eurozone, French real GDP growth in the third quarter fell short of expectations and only increased 0.3% quarter-over-quarter.

Currency Returns vs. U.S. Dollar

Total return as of 12/31/2018

Sources: Bloomberg, Barclays, & JPMorgan
All indices are Bloomberg Barclays indices except where noted

- Interest rates continued to exhibit heightened levels of volatility. Treasuries rallied as the 10-year fell nearly 40 bps to finish the quarter at 2.68%.
- Riskier parts of the domestic fixed income universe such as U.S. high yield fell. Given the route in equity markets, investors placed an emphasis on upgrading the quality of their portfolio.
- The U.S. dollar continued to appreciate relative to most global currencies. As a result, hedged strategies within non-U.S. fixed income outperformed unhedged and emerging strategies.

U.S. FIXED INCOME

U.S. Yield Curve

10-Year Breakeven Inflation Rate

Credit Spreads Above Treasuries

As of 12/31/2018

- Despite political rhetoric from the White House, the Federal Reserve increased its target rate again by 25 bps to 2.25-2.50% following the Fed's December meeting.
- Recession signals flashed during the quarter as the yield curve inverted between the 2- and 5-year Treasuries. Following the intermediate term inversion, a sell off in risk assets resulted in spread widening within high yield.
- Breakeven inflation fell to 1.7% as TIPS vastly underperformed Treasuries for the quarter.

Total return as of 12/31/2018

- Within U.S. equities, value stocks held up better than growth and large capitalization stocks better than small cap during the volatile fourth quarter. Energy was the worst performing sector as oil prices slid. Utilities outperformed as investors rotated into less cyclical sectors.
- Similar to domestic equities, international equities fell. Developed markets fared worse than emerging as political developments in Brazil and positive returns in India boosted index returns in the quarter.
- The risk-off mentality was seen across all international developed markets. Similar to domestic markets, utilities outperformed while energy, technology and industrials lagged. Investors will be keeping an eye toward Brexit developments and upcoming election cycles among a number of other European countries.

MLP Yield Spreads over 10-Year Treasury

As of 12/31/2018

● MLP Spread
— FTSE NAREIT Equity REIT Spread
— A-Rated Corporate Spread
— BBB-Rated Corporate Spread

- Real assets were broadly negative in the fourth quarter as risk aversion took hold within financial markets. REITs outperformed other assets classes as multifamily REITs and healthcare REITs proved resilient. Hospitality underperformed as the sector is generally more sensitive to economic and equity market sentiment.
- Energy fell sharply during the quarter, stemming from a decline in crude prices. Additional supply resulting from sanctions being lifted on Iran surprised the market. Natural gas, which was flat for the quarter, helped offset a portion of the decline. The same is true of precious metals which were higher in the fourth quarter.
- MLPs declined as a combination of tax loss harvesting, corporate transactions and risk aversion negatively affected the asset class. Despite the equity market reaction, pipeline volumes, cash flow growth and balance sheets continue to strengthen in the space.

■ QTR ■ YTD

Total return as of 12/31/2018

- The HFRI Fund Weighted Composite Index was down during the fourth quarter, but protected capital better than the S&P 500, MSCI EAFE, and most risk assets.
- As expected, Equity Hedge strategies underperformed the broader hedge fund universe, with losses concentrated in the energy and materials-oriented strategies.
- Event Driven strategies modestly outperformed the broader hedge fund universe, with activist managers trailing the broader group while Multi-Strategy funds within Event Driven fared well.
- Macro strategies were the strongest performer during the fourth quarter amongst the broader hedge fund universe as systematic strategies exhibited strong downside protection.
- Relative Value also outperformed the broader hedge fund universe, led by relative-value multi-strategy managers and volatility trading strategies.
